Tyson C. Kade

Associate

Tyson Kade's practice focuses on federal and state environmental and natural resources law. Mr. Kade counsels clients on regulatory compliance and permitting matters, particularly those involving endangered species, fisheries, hazardous waste, hydroelectric, and renewable energy issues in the Pacific Northwest and Alaska.

Specifically, Mr. Kade provides clients with strategic guidance on Endangered Species Act and Clean Water Act compliance and liability issues. He also advises on Magnuson-Stevens Fishery Conservation and Management Act issues in West Coast and Alaska fisheries. In addition, Mr. Kade has experience with project permitting issue resolution, such as those involving water rights, oil and gas development, seafood processing, vessel discharges, and hydropower relicensing. Mr. Kade also represents clients in challenging administrative penalties associated with violations of hazardous waste and air monitoring laws and FERC compliance regarding the development of an electric transmission planning process.
