JOSHUA D. KREBS

PARTNER

Professional Background

Josh handles a range of transactional matters for purchasers, sellers, developers, landlords, tenants and lenders. He negotiates purchase and sale agreements, leases, and numerous other agreements related to the development, ownership, and use of real property. He also counsels clients in the evaluation, financing, acquisition, development, sale, and leasing of both residential and commercial real property, as well as business entity formation and maintenance.

In addition to his transactional practice, Josh assists in the representation of clients involved in complex disputes, as he previously worked in the litigation practice group of a major international law firm and has a broad range of complex litigation experience involving real estate, commercial, environmental, and consumer product regulation issues.

Representative Experience

- Represents both purchasers and sellers in sophisticated real property purchase and sale transactions, including 1031 exchanges involving multi-family and retail properties
- Represents a broad range of clients including franchisees, medical professionals, manufacturers and consultants in asset purchase and sale transactions
- Represents clients in business entity formation and maintenance matters
- Represented major national insurance companies and financial institutions in complex title disputes
- Represented homeowners and condominium owners associations, advising on a wide variety of management and property issues including owner/association rights and obligations under Washington law and federal regulations, amending association documents, addressing delinquencies, and resolving disputes involving owners and boards of directors
- Represented a multi-location franchisee in dispute with national franchisor over territorial restrictions
- Represented real property purchasers in disputes with sellers over terms of purchase and sale agreements
- Represented business management consultant tenant in dispute with landlord over lease terms
